

Winchester Theological Summer School In Association with
The Justice Desk of the Association of Missionaries and Religious of Ireland (AMRI)

Neighbour or Stranger: A Christian Response to Forced Displacement in our World

Friday 14th - Sunday 16th July, 2017 at the University of Winchester

Forced Displacement of peoples and species is one of the most urgent issues of our time. There are over 65 million refugees, asylum seekers and other displaced people in the world today. This is the picture we see but alongside this many species are also displaced or eliminated due to war and movements of peoples. While politicians' debate the former they tend to ignore the latter but as Christians we need to see a larger and more inclusive picture.

But how can we as Christians respond to the crisis we see unfolding before us?

Join us for our theological summer school which offers an opportunity to engage with this reality through the use of social, cultural, political, theological and personal studies and resources.

Participants will be invited to dialogue and think critically about this issue and develop a theological understanding as well as practical approaches to contribute to building a more just and equal society.

Further details and a booking form, contact:

joanna.wilson@winchester.ac.uk (ITP Administrator) or you can book online at www.winchester.ac.uk/itpsummerschool

The programme consists of:

- Input from leading scholars in the field
- Small group lead reflection and study with a tutor
- Critical dialogue and action responses.

The team for the summer school is: Dr Sr Sheila Curran;
Prof Lisa Isherwood & Dr Megan Clay

Summer School Fees:

Residential (B&B, lunch, dinner, teas and coffees)	£280
Non-Residential (teas & coffees, lunch)	£180
Additional accommodation (per night)	£40

The Summer School will start at 9.30 a.m. on Friday 14th July 2017

