

Opening of Lionel Kelland Hospice, Grand Falls-Windsor Newfoundland

On November 23, 2023, the Lionel Kelland Hospice was officially opened in Grand Falls-Windsor. The hospice is a community project created through the generosity of many people, especially the Presentation Sisters, who have been working closely with the organizing committee for almost ten years. The Sisters donated their St. Catherine's Renewal Centre property, which has been renovated to accommodate a ten-bed hospice with beautiful space for the families and those caring for the patients.

The Sisters of Mercy were given the privilege to name one of the wings. The west wing will be named after Sr. Mary Fabian Hennebury, who established the first palliative care unit at St. Clare's Mercy Hospital in St. Johns in 1979.

The Sisters of Mercy were given the privilege to name one of the wings. The west wing will be named after Sr. Mary Fabian Hennebury who established in 1979 the first palliative care unit at St. Clare's Mercy Hospital in St. John's.

Sisters Elizabeth Marrie and Patricia March attended the grand opening ceremonies in Grand Falls-Windsor. Sr. M. Fabian's niece Yvonne Coleman and grand-nephew, Aidan Coleman also attended.

This article was first published on the Sisters of Mercy Newfoundland website. For more information on the Sisters of Mercy Newfoundland, please visit their website - <https://www.sistersofmercynf.org/>